

Hair Removal

Unwanted body and facial hair can be anything from mildly annoying to hugely embarrassing to different people. For some, shaving will suffice, but for others, the blunt and quick regrowth and the constant ritual of removing it again and again to no long-term benefit is frustrating.

This leaves us with two options – waxing and laser. Waxing involves covering the area with hot wax and ripping it off once it dries, pulling away the hairs, right down to their follicle. This permanently removes those hairs.

Later, other hairs grow in their place, Overall reduction varies from person to person, as does the experience of pain.

An alternative to the cringe incited by the mention of Brazilian waxing is laser. Tiny beams of light, specifically chosen from the spectrum by your clinician for your needs, penetrate the outer layer of skin to superheat the hair follicle, heating the unwanted hair at its base.

After a few weeks, as the natural cycle of hair growth continues, the hair dies and drops out of the skin.

These hairs do not grow back. Due to the inevitably uneven growth of hair in the skin, it is impossible to target every single hair, but over a course of laser treatments, more and more hairs will be hit and fewer and fewer will be apparent.

Skin Deep Aesthetics uses cutting-edge technology, after a thorough consult on the effects and the outcomes of these treatments, this then enables the clinician to tailor the treatment more specifically to the client.

It is also extremely safe – all clients wear eye coverings to protect them during treatment.

Just like a black car left out in the sun, whatever is darkest in colour when exposed to light will absorb the most heat, whereas a lighter coloured car will not reach the same temperatures.

Because of this, laser is most effective on dark hair in light skin tones. Your clinician can advise whether laser is right for you.
